CONFIDENTIAL

19. [redacted] Called Alan Parker, Counsel to the Subcommittee on Civil and Constitutional Rights, House Judiciary Committee, concerning H. R. 8227 (identical to S. 2008), the so-called Edwards-Tunney bill on criminal justice information. Parker said that the bill had supplanted H. R. 61 as the leading contender in the field of criminal justice information control, and that hearings would be held in a week and that the Committee was planning to report a bill onto the floor in September. I commented that the bill appeared to be more complex than H. R. 61 which, as I understood it, had not been the intent of the Committee and that it had the same problems and pitfalls as the other bills in the area. Parker said that it wasn't cast in concrete and that he expected that a lot of work would have to be done on the "intelligence angle of the bill."
